Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP patent Application 2002-255782).

JP patent discloses a current conducting terminal which is in contact with either a positive or a negative electrode of one battery (A) and in contact with an electrode of opposite polarity of another battery (B) for conducting current between the two batteries, comprising: one electrode (21 or 22) which is in contact with the either positive or negative electrode of the one battery; another electrode which is in contact with the electrode of opposite polarity of the another battery; and a conductive polymer (23) which is placed between the one electrode and the another electrode. The term “for” as recited in the claims has not been given any patentable weight because it’s narrative in form. In order to given patentable weight, a functional recitation must be expressed as a “means” for performing the specific function, as set forth in 35 USC 112, 6th paragraph, and must be supported by recitation in the functional language. In re Fuller, 1929 C. D. 172, 388 O. G. 279.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2-3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP patent Application 2002-255782).

5. JP patent discloses the aforementioned limitations, but fails to explicitly disclose the arrangement of the electrode and the contacts. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to the electrode and the contacts being arranged in some specific fashions, since it has been held that rearranging parts of an invention involved only routine skill in the art. In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to the electrode and the contacts being arranged in some specific fashions in order to meet the system specification and requirement.
